

Kiyomi Hawley is a singer/songwriter from New York who will be releasing her second album, an EP in September 2018. The title track "Meet You There" is inspired by the cult that she was born and raised in. It is about wanting to be loved and accepted for who you are. The EP's other tracks deal with topics such as school shootings, empowerment and being your best self, and pursuing your passions no matter how hard it is. It was recorded at Bashville Studio NYC and was produced by Kevin Bents. Her musical style can be compared to Regina Spektor, Sara Bareilles, Birdy, Christina Perri, Tori Amos, Sarah McLachlan, Ingrid Michaelson, and Carole King.

Meet You There (EP)

Kiyomi studied Classical and Theatre Voice and Studio Composition but likes to mostly rely on her ear and inspirations when creating and performing. She has had the opportunity to tour the US, Japan, and Korea. She's also performed for foreign ambassadors and members of the UN. She's appeared on local TV shows, has been written about in local magazines and websites, and is or has been played on radio stations such as Pandora, WVCR-FM, RPI's Local Riot, SUNY Stonybrook WUSB, and Women of Substance Radio. She's performed all over Westchester County and in NYC in venues such as The Bitter End, Sidewalk Café, and Alphabet Lounge.
